Dear Hiring Manager,

I embody the qualities of dependability, honesty, and well-mannered conduct. My commitment to my responsibilities is admirable, since I consistently prove myself to be a hardworking and dedicated individual.

I am a recent graduate of a master's degree in Computer Science and Applications and I am looking forward to working for a company and start my career! I have some experience in the following programming languages C, Java, SQL, HTML, CSS, and Javascript(+React). I am keeping myself busy by learning more about front end and back end.

Through my Master's, I have cooperated with a colleague to complete some difficult projects, like an Android App and a Website, so I am a team player too! I spend my time creating apps, learning more about coding and enhancing my skills through CodeWars!

I believe that I'm strong with Java and Javascript because I have the most projects on them. Some of the projects I've built include: the Android Quizz App, the E-commerce Website, a checklist app, a rock paper scissors app, a calculator, many smaller html-css-javascript website like a login-logout-register pages, a date-time-stopwatch, a rock paper scissors website, expenses tracker, dice etc. I've also completed 40+ Katas(a kata is a programming exercise which helps a programmer sharpen their skills through practice and repetition) in codewars mid difficulty.

Although I specialize in Android Applications, I love building websites with JS or coding in Java for backend. I generally like coding, so I don't mind the position!

Thank you for taking the time to read my cover letter and consider my application! If you need more information I would be more than happy to provide you with it. I am open to relocate and to travel.

Sincerely,

Angelos Klimantiris
